GEORGES' PLANS ON ARRIVAL FOR BATTLE ARE NOT DEFINITE

One Report States Carpentier Will Appear in Movies Prior to Championship Bout With Jack Dempsey. Due Here Tomorrow or Monday

By ROBERT W. MAXWELL

Sports Editor Evening Public Ledger WHILE Jack Dempsey is entertaining the natives at Atlantic City and preparing to go into active training behind the ticket windows at the Airport, Georges Carpentier is steaming toward our shores. The Frenchman me to arrive some time tomorrow or Monday, and then will follow some real excitement. No foreign challenger ever has been so widely advertised and no boxer ever had the same social standing in Europe. Every move will e chronicled and it looks as if Georges would grab most of the space in the

The location of his training camp still is a secret. A short time ago it was rumored he would select Atlantic City, but now we are not so sure. Another thing is that nobody seems to know when he will start training. Here are two items from the one newspaper which appeared a couple of days ago:

The first from Paris, written on April 29, says: "The European chamon looks fine and it will not take long to get in tiptop condition for the big fight. He has another film engagement in the States which will take up a couple of weeks' time after his arrival, so his actual training will start about five weeks prior to the date of the fight."

Over in another column is a dispatch from Paris, dated May 1, and Manger Descamps is quoted as saying: "Immediately upon reaching New York out May 16 Carpentier will go straight to his training quarters at Manhasset. He will remain there until the day of the fight."

After perusing these items we don't know what Carpentier intends to do after he gets here. However, the film engagement sounds reasonable, for movie magnates are willing to pay the challenger to appear in a scenario before the battle and take a gamble on the picture. If he wins they will make a big profit, and if not, the film will be a money-maker anyway. It also must be remembered that Georges is not coming over here for his health. It is purely a financial proposition, and every little bit helps. And you can't blame Carpentier for that.

THEREFORE it would not be at all surprising if the challenger left everybody flat and hied himself to some studio for two weeks or so to strengthen the bankroll. Still, you never can tell. Lerhaps some one will tell him that the training camp receipts will not a greater profit. Let's wait until he gets here.

Rookies Back in Bushes

THE pruning process that pleasant little pastime indulged in by big league I managers, is over for 1921. The process consists of attaching tinware to rookies that bloom in the spring, tra-la, and shipping them back to the alfalfa and forest primeval whence they came. A lot of the boys have returned to the barber shop and general store in the old home town and the natives are hearing all about the raw deal handed to the pride of the village. According to major league rules, ball clubs cannot have more than twenty-five players on the payroll on May 15, which is Sunday. Therefore all of the work has been done and the squads cut so that the rule is observed today. Miller Huggins had the hardest job in keeping within the player limit Down South he had fifty-five young gentlemen trying to get on the team, and thirty have been canned. Some are out under optional agreements and others were released outright. From now until the fall we will not be annoved with embryonic Babe Ruths and Ty Cobbs and the regular players will attempt to earn their large salaries by playing every day. Cutting down the list of players was not so hard this year, outside of

New York. The other clubs did not have many youngsters down South, the average squad numbering about thirty. Pittsburgh had thirty-eight, but the superfluous talent was shipped long ago. None of the clubs was hard hit; in fact, they still are looking for talent which will replace some of the regulars Pittsburgh is here today for a series with the Phils and also to increase lead in the National League race. The Pirates looked very good when they were training in Hot Springs and improved after the regular season opened. George Gibson has done wonders in selecting a team, and more power to him. One of the stars is Tierney, an infielder purchased from Tulsa. This young man is hitting with zest and fervor and aiding considerably in keeping his club in front. Bernhart, another kid from Birmingham, also is a star, although he is not playing regularly.

Where Gibson gets his strength is in the reserves. He has a substitute for every position, and the sub is almost as good as the regular. Another thing which helps some is, his pitchers have come through in fine style. Good pitching and good hitting make a formidable ball club in any league.

WHILE on the subject of Pittsburgh, let us consider the case of Bill Haeffner. Bill caught for the Pirates last year and did not report this season because of his contract. He wanted more money and failed to get it. Now he is playing independent ball around Philadelphia and Pittsburgh is playing pennant-winning baseball. That slice of World Series coin will be missed by Harfner.

Fall of the Mighty

ONCE upon a time Frank Baker was a star. He was the home-run king and one of the biggest figures in baseball. He also was a gate attraction. Now he is just an ordinary player, his name appearing in the line-up and seidom in the reading matter. He has been overshadowed by younger and heftier clouters and soon will be a memory. In baseball it makes no difference what you were-you have to keep up with the procession.

Baker once was a star because he knocked eleven home runs in a season. Now they make that many in a month and don't get a tumble. The Trappe slugger also is down among the dead ones in the batting averages. This week his mark is .214, which does not look at all healthy.

Home-run clouting is the popular sport. The public wants it and the homeric heroes are boosted to the skies. Babe Ruth is leading with ten to his credit and George Kelly, of the Giants, has eight. This race is closer than any one expected, but the Babe will increase his lead this month. In the American League, only Sam Rice, Bobby Meusel and Harry Heil-man are behind the Babe in what might be called second place. They have three each, and Speaker, Cobb, Sisler, Smith, of Cleveland, Joe Dugan and Larry Gardner connected with two each. Kelly leads in the National, with Meusel, Wrightstone and Tommy Griffith trailing behind. Those who have a pair of four-basers to their credit are Smith, of the Giants, Carey, Schultz, of St. Lose, Cruise, Zach Wheat, Neis, Williams and our one and only Lee Meadows.

This week's figgers show something which could be called startling. The National League has made more home runs than the American. Sounds strange, but true, because figgers don't lie.

TOTAL of fifty-six was registered in the National including the games played on Wednesday, against fifty-two for the American.

Pitching Duel Expected When Industrial Baseball Leaders Clash at Lawndale

MORE LEAGUE OPENINGS

A glance at the "little" league schedules for this afternoon shows that some flood keen competitions can be expected in many of the circuits. A predicted pitching duel is scheduled in the Industrial Amateur League between Supplee-Biddle Hardware Co. and Henry Disston Sons. It will be played at the Curtis Country Club at Lawndale in connection with the annual outing of the Supplee-

Biddle employes.

Buck Mason, who will hurl for the Sawmakers, set a league mark last week in the game with Thornton Fuller, when he whiffed fourteen and blanked his opponents, Disston winning, 10 to 0.

He will face Pitcher Cole, who breezed ten Gimbel batsmen and also scored shutout by 7 to 0.

The other undefeated leaders, Hohlfeld and Packard, clash at Seventeenth street and Indiana avenue, and another hard-fought contest is looked for, as both won their game, casily last week. With the tall-enders and leaders play-ing each other there is certain to be a g shake-up in the standings.

However, Coach Robertson expects to overbalance the points scored by the Ithacans in the track events by rolling up the counters with his speedsters. Freshman on Franklin Field
